

ABSTRACT

Electrical plug safety covers having a resilient sleeve that is of unitary construction and is practically unbreakable. The sleeve features one or more slits that open and close through the application of force along a plane perpendicular to the slit(s), thereby allowing a plug to be easily removed from the interior of the sleeve by adults but not by small children.

5